

AFP Author Credentialing Form

We have found it best for all concerned if our authors are experienced clinicians familiar with critically reviewing and analyzing the medical literature, and experienced with the medical publishing process. Toward this end, we ask potential authors to indicate their experience with publishing articles in peer reviewed medical journals, and with the principles of evidence-based medicine.

Name, degree(s):

Affiliation information:

Email address:

Please provide 1-3 representative citations for which you have served as a first or contributing author (it might be easiest to cut and paste these from PubMed).

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.

Please indicate your experience in evidence-based medicine (EBM)—check one or more:

1. Teach EBM in medical school or residency.
2. Familiar with the principles of EBM from reading in the field.
3. Have written articles using an EBM approach (cited sources of pre-appraised evidence, such as Cochrane; rated the strength of evidence for key statements, and so forth).
4. Have written for American Family Physician previously.
5. Have written for DynaMed, Essential Evidence Plus, FPIN's Clinical Inquiries, or other EBM-oriented primary care publication.

NOTE: We do not permit medical or other students to serve as authors, and we require that resident physicians, if involved with the manuscript, work with an experienced attending physician who will serve as first and corresponding author. Also, our conflict of interest policy precludes us from considering manuscripts written by an author who has a financial relationship with any commercial entity that may have an interest in the subject matter of the article within the previous 36 months. This includes serving on a speaker's bureau or advisory board, or receiving research support related to the subject matter of the article, as well as other relationships detailed in our conflict of interest policy:
