

Which live format fits your CME activity?

All live formats, whether in person or online, take place in real time and involve two or more physicians. These activities provide the opportunity for real-time interaction between learners and faculty.

In-Person Live

Learners and faculty gather in the same physical space (e.g., conference room, classroom).

Learners may engage with one another in small groups, workshops, or via in-classroom conversation.

Online Live

Learners and faculty meet virtually (e.g., Zoom webinar or Google Meet).

Learners may engage with one another in the virtual platform's comment or Q&A box or in Zoom breakout groups.

Please note that enduring materials are not considered online live formats as that format does not occur in real time and is based on independent learning materials designed primarily as self-study activities.
