

AFP Author Credentialing Form

We have found it best for all concerned if our authors are experienced clinicians familiar with critically reviewing and analyzing the medical literature, and experienced with the medical publishing process. We ask potential authors to indicate their experience with publishing articles in peer-reviewed medical journals, and with the principles of evidence-based medicine.

Areas of Interest/Expertise:

Please provide up to 3 representative citations for which you have served as a first or contributing author (it might be easiest to cut and paste these from PubMed).

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.

Please indicate your experience in evidence-based medicine (EBM) – check one or more:

1. _____ Teach EBM in medical school or residency.
2. _____ Have written articles using an EBM approach (cited sources of pre-appraised evidence, such as Cochrane; rated the strength of evidence for key statements, and so forth).
3. _____ Have written for American Family Physician previously.
4. _____ Have served as a reviewer for American Family Physician.

5. ____ Have written for DynaMed, Essential Evidence Plus, FPIN's Clinical Inquiries, or other EBM-oriented primary care publication.
6. ____ Do you have clinical experience (i.e. have you evaluated and/or treated the condition in your practice) with your topic(s) of interest?

AUTHORSHIP POLICY: We do not permit medical or other students to serve as authors, and we require that resident physicians, if involved with the manuscript, work with an experienced attending physician who will serve as first and corresponding author. Per our authorship policy, the author originally assigned to a topic should remain lead/corresponding author through completion of the article. Please keep in mind that we do not allow more than 3 authors on an article.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY: Our conflict of interest policy precludes us from considering manuscripts written by an author who has a financial relationship with any commercial entity that may have an interest in the subject matter of the article within the previous 36 months. This includes serving on a speaker's bureau or advisory board, or receiving research support related to the subject matter of the article, as well as other relationships detailed in our conflict of interest policy:

Interested in serving as a reviewer? For those of you who might be new to AFP, one way of getting involved is to offer to serve as a reviewer (<https://www.aafp.org/journals/afp/reviewers.html>). It's a chance to get to know the process and for us to become familiar with your skills. In order to be considered as a reviewer, please complete and return the Reviewer Profile form available in the Reviewers Guide via the link above. Please indicate if you are interested in serving as a reviewer on future AFP manuscripts:

____ Yes

____ No
