About the AAFP
Standing together—131,400 strong—we are the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP). Collectively, our members work diligently toward a common goal—to achieve the best possible health outcomes for our patients. We are committed to our members and to ensuring that family medicine is seen as the cornerstone of the American health care system.

Family physicians conduct approximately one in five of the total medical office visits in the United States per year—more than any other specialty. Family physicians provide comprehensive, evidence-based, and cost-effective care dedicated to improving the health of patients, families, and communities. Family medicine’s cornerstone is an ongoing and personal patient-physician relationship, where the family physician serves as the hub of each patient’s integrated care team. More Americans depend on family physicians than on any other medical specialty.
