Dear Majority Leader Schumer, Speaker Pelosi, Chairman Wyden, and Chairman Pallone,

We, the undersigned organizations representing consumers, family members, providers, advocates, payers, and other stakeholders committed to strengthening peoples' access to high-quality health coverage and care across America, urge you to include language that requires 12-month continuous eligibility for children on Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) in the reconciliation package currently under development.

Medicaid and CHIP provide critical health coverage to more than 80 million Americans, including 45 million children, as well as pregnant women, people with disabilities, the working poor, and senior citizens. These coverage programs are a lifeline for millions of American families. During the COVID-19 pandemic, Medicaid and CHIP have provided insurance against devastating illness and the financial consequences of the pandemic's economic downturn. Despite the importance of Medicaid and CHIP, serious issues must be addressed to stabilize coverage for the people they serve.

Collectively, we are concerned that millions of people enroll in Medicaid and CHIP each year only to subsequently lose their coverage – despite often still being eligible – because of the cycle of enrollment and disenrollment called “eligibility churn.” Eligibility churn is caused by inefficient paperwork and other reporting requirements or temporary income fluctuations. As the nation has grappled with the COVID-19 pandemic over the past year and a half, Medicaid enrollees have been protected by the continuous eligibility protection built into the Families First Coronavirus Relief Act's funding increase to states, which has temporarily halted the eligibility churn for people with Medicaid coverage. Children and pregnant women on CHIP have not received that protection.

Typically, individuals on Medicaid are covered for nine and a half months of the year; children are covered for just 10 months. Despite an existing state option for 12-month continuous eligibility for children, only 23 states have implemented this policy in Medicaid and only 25 have done so in CHIP. Additional research demonstrates that low-income individuals experiencing income volatility and the resulting loss of Medicaid eligibility do not transition to other forms of insurance, such as Marketplace or employer-sponsored coverage, and instead become uninsured. Studies show that communities of color are the most likely to experience income volatility each year. We know that interruptions in coverage worsen health outcomes and lead to avoidable hospitalizations or emergency room care for mental health disorders, asthma, and diabetes. Coverage gaps also raise the average monthly cost of Medicaid and result in higher avoidable administrative costs for states, health care providers, and health plans.

A 2020 report found that from 2016 through 2018 in the states that have adopted continuous eligibility for children in Medicaid, 294,000 children had at least one preventive care visit; 93,000 kids got the specialty care they needed; and 261,000 kids had no gaps in coverage.

The report also found that extending 12-month continuous eligibility from 24 to 50 states would:

- Increase the number of kids receiving specialty care by 87 percent, from 93,000 to 174,000.
- Roughly double preventative care visits for children, from 294,000 to 585,000.
- Roughly double the number of kids with no gaps in coverage, from 261,000 to 520,000.

A policy of continuous eligibility – specifically, a federal requirement to cover children in Medicaid and CHIP – will provide 12 months of continuous and stable enrollment and will also allow Medicaid and CHIP programs to operate more like private coverage and Medicare. Stability in Medicaid and CHIP coverage will cut bureaucracy for states conducting screening and eligibility determinations and relieve excessive burden on providers that strive to ensure their patients retain coverage and access to care. It will help health providers and plans more readily maintain continuity of care management, which is vital to keeping children healthier. Most importantly, continuous eligibility will lessen financial stress and offer steady access to needed care for children on Medicaid and CHIP and their families.

We were pleased to see the Administration again recognize the importance of continuous eligibility when they recently extended the timeframe for states to complete pending eligibility and enrollment actions to twelve months after the month in which the public health emergency ends. Now, we ask Congress to build on that policy and include continuous eligibility in the reconciliation package to improve coverage for our nation’s children.

Sincerely,
