

Summary of Actions of the 2017 National Congress of Student Members

The resolution asks that the American Academy of Family Physicians investigate the use of smart card technology in the hands of patients as a means to improve electronic health record system inter-operability in the United States health system. Smart cards are a technology to store and access identity and smaller data sets. This requires standardization of these identity and other data. In health care we do not have such national standards. Until we have a national identifier and standardized data sets, smart cards will not be able to improve efficiency to accessing patient data. AAFP's activities have been to push for standardization of identity data and clinical summary information, which are foundational to any national smart card effort. Considered input from members who had experience participating in and creating online mentorship programs. Agreed with past considerations of this body and with the reference committee that reviewed this resolution during the 2017 NC that creation and maintenance of a national database of mentors and mentees would require a level of organizational resources that is prohibitive of agreeing with the resolution. Concerned that such an effort might not have a positive return on its investment. Most impactful mentorship relationships often happen at a local level when they are self-directed. Staff will look for opportunities to enhance resources for students on seeking their own mentoring experiences, connecting with their state chapters, joining AAFP Member Interest Groups, and other venues.
