July 2021 • Volume 104, Number 1
www.aafp.org/afp
It wasn’t very long ago that the typical out-patient practice was full of activity. Patients were coming in for care, assessments following elective surgeries and/or changes in functional status were being performed, therapy was being prescribed and patients were being helped to recover function. Telerehabilitation was being discussed, but was not a primary part of care delivery, in large part because of reimbursement barriers.
