FAMILY MEDICINE INTEREST GROUP

Discover your passion for primary care.
Join your FMIG on campus.

What is an FMIG? Family Medicine Interest Group is a campus-based organization for medical students who are interested in, you guessed it, family medicine.

Who should join? Medical students interested in promoting primary care and learning more about family medicine.

Time commitment? That's up to you. You decide how little or how much you want to participate.

Benefits? Connect with peers, gain leadership and professional development experience, participate in structured community service opportunities, flex your clinical skills, access member-only resources, and more.
