

Statement by Family Medicine Organizations

Several family medicine organizations signed on to a letter to the family medicine community in May 2020. This letter recommended that programs exclusively conduct virtual interviews for the 2020-2021 recruitment season.

As the interview season approaches, we (the undersigned) would like to once again strongly urge all residency programs to eliminate in-person interviews this year and adopt virtual platforms to conduct all interviews and site visits, including local applicants. Conducting virtual interviews and visits for applicants will help ensure the safety and health for all and create a fair and equitable application process for both applicants and programs.

John A. Cullen, MD, FAAFP
Board Chair, American Academy of Family Physicians

Steven R. Brown, MD, FAAFP
President, Association of Family Medicine Residency Directors

Robert C. DeLuca, DO, FACOFP dist.
President, American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians

Deborah S. Clements, MD, FAAFP
Chair, Council of Academic Family Medicine

R. Allen Perkins, MD, MPH
President, Association of Departments of Family Medicine

Jack Westfall, MD, MPH
President, NAPCRG

Tricia Elliott, MD
President, Society of Teachers of Family Medicine