Introduction to the Interactive Resource Center

Introduction and Overview

- At the beginning of FMAHealth a number of you gave us important guidance: FMAHealth's sponsoring organizations have developed tools and resources to help transform primary care. Rather than reinvent them, help us get them used by more members of the family medicine community.
- The Interactive Resource Center is FMAHealth's response to that request. We envision a virtual hub that can be used by practices, teachers, students, residents and researchers to continuously learn and develop knowledge and skills based on their level of readiness.
- We believe this is one important way that family medicine can lead the transformation of primary care in the United States and attract more people to the specialty while doing so.

Vision for the Interactive Resource Center

Helping family physicians transform their practices and put existing tools to work in new, targeted ways.
